Monitor change. Manage compliance.
Introducing CyberRegs®

Do more with less — it's an old adage, but in today's business climate, it's more relevant than ever before. CyberRegs® gives you and your colleagues access to the most comprehensive database of full-text federal and state regulations, statutes, and related compliance documents from any computer, anywhere. With powerful tools, you can easily identify the documents you need, begin reviewing them immediately, and then share and manage that information company-wide — all while placing fewer demands on your financial resources and personnel.

Monitor everywhere from wherever you are.

CyberRegs® gives you immediate access to the most up-to-date federal and state statutes, regulations, forms, and more. Our powerful search feature allows you to locate content by keyword, topic, and citation. And through our rapid-access menu system you can easily review the documents you need in a fraction of the time.

CyberRegs® also includes environmental, safety, and health documents from Canada including each of its provinces, Mexico, the European Union, and select European and South American countries.

- Work seamlessly. Links are embedded throughout each document that allow you to jump to the precise section or paragraph the text references.
- Simplify your research. Our RegMatch™ feature allows you to cross-reference articles with related topics and citation references across multiple jurisdictions.
- Track your work. Use our bookmark and quick link features to quickly access the library's content that is most important to you or use the My Site Log feature to recall information from a previous day.
- Access related information immediately. CyberRegs® allows you to review information from many sources including: the extensive library of industry standards (ANSI, ASTM, IEEE, etc.), Aspen's air, hazardous waste, and RCRA products, and the ESS Compliance Suite MIS.

When documents change, understand what has changed.

CyberRegs® comprehensive suite of tracking features gives you the tools to monitor changes in relevant documents. Simply define your area of interest broadly, including topic searches, or focus your efforts to a list of citations. Whenever a document is updated, you will receive change notifications via email. You then can view any version of the document or compare multiple versions of the same document.

- Always have the most current, pertinent information. With Citation's Early Warning Service™ (EWS), users receive email alerts linking to Federal and State documents within your defined areas of interest.
- Monitor changes more accurately and preserve institutional knowledge. Our Stored Notification® System (SNS) automatically tracks each citation governing all aspects of facilities for modifications. SNS is a fully auditable environment that allows you to review updated documents, make comments regarding applicability, save and share this analysis, and mark these notifications closed upon review.
- Compare documents quickly and easily. The Change Tracking System™ lets you immediately identify and understand revisions using color-coded highlights.

Share industry-specific news company-wide.

Regulations can affect one location or multiple facilities. CyberRegs® simplifies how you share relevant information with individuals, groups, or your entire company. This process allows companies to retain information should employees leave the company or become reassigned to other duties.

- Collaborate with anyone, anywhere. CyberRegs® provides a forum to discuss matters that affect your business. Attach notes to any document or paragraph within a document, and then share these annotations with individuals throughout your organization.
- Collect and preserve company expertise. CyberRegs® allows you to integrate important company information and knowledge alongside relevant content. As employees are promoted to other responsibilities or retire, your company is able to retain their knowledge for future use.
- Share your discoveries and ideas. Throughout your research, you'll find documents you want others to read. CyberRegs® allows you to send community emails without ever leaving the document you are working in.

In the information age, success comes from how you gather your information and apply it.

Whether you're looking to maintain your company's compliance or enhance its performance, CyberRegs® provides the tools to manage the regulatory information relevant to your compliance requirements, processes, and systems efficiently and cost-effectively. Take a tour at CyberRegs.com.
